Profile:

Senior student and outstanding performer in academic and social activity within the University of Yunnan College of Economics and Management. I am a dedicated, hardworking, and proactive software engineering student with a strong background in programming, database, and computer networking. I am currently looking for an opportunity to improve and utilize my technical skills and become an asset to the institutions that I'm studying besides achieving my ambition and goals. I have proven success in academics and certified both academic achievement and excellent performance award for the consecutive three years of 2019-2022 in my undergraduate study at Yunnan College of Economics and Management.
